Patient Information

Lip reading classes in Cambridge and surrounding areas

Lip-reading can be a useful additional skill for those that are hard of hearing. Particularly in noisy situations it can be a struggle to clearly make out everyday conversation even when wearing hearing aids. Learning how to recognise the lip patterns for different speech sounds and make use of people's expressions and gestures allows you to make best use of the available visual cues to support your hearing in difficult situations.

Lip-reading classes are not run by Addenbrooke's Audiology Department directly and so we can only provide times and contact details for classes that are run in the local area. For more details on ability range, course fees and starting dates, please contact the different providers on the telephone numbers listed.
